

Founded in 1995, our mission is to make a profit and use it entirely for development cooperation. In 2019, HUMANA People to People organisations worked with education, health, community development and environment in 45 countries.

Our business model is to run second hand shops in Germany which is also a contribution to sustainable consumption. We offer a large range of women's, men's and children's clothing as well as vintage clothing.

Our main supplier is HUMANA Kleidersammlung GmbH who collects and sorts used clothes in Germany. At the end of 2019, our 326 employees (219 FTE) of 46 nationalities were running 32 shops with a sales area of 12,075 m² in Berlin, Bochum, Dresden, Hamburg, Köln, Leipzig and Neuss, serving our customers in 1,093,459 sales transactions in 2019.

Economic sustainability: we did not rely on government subsidies

As in previous years, we did not rely on government subsidies or other subsidies.

We paid wages to our staff and related costs such as public health insurance, unemployment insurance etc.

We also pay full VAT and corporate tax.

All in all, we thus contributed well to the society in our business environment.

We strive for economic sustainability as a basis for supporting the good cause.

As in previous years, we sourced our electricity entirely from certified green supplier Naturstrom which means that we create no CO2-emissions for electricity.

Paying rents for physical shops (as compared to online sales) helps keep the inner cities alive.

Our decent prices help reduce inequalities. At the same time, more and more of our customers buy second hand clothes in our shops because they want to contribute to a better world.
